Arcus

Aesthetics

A chair that could just stand in the corner of the office and still attract attention. But once you sit down in it, you'll discover a new dimension of comfort.

Nido

Variability

A private armchair for one, seating in the waiting room for three, or a huge sofa in the shopping center. Nido is designed by the renowned design studio Orlandini Design, but the form, shapes, and dimensions of Nido are designed by you in the configurator.

We admire handwork, but we are also aware of the advantages of modern technology. That is why our fabrics are cut mostly by machines but under the supervision of experienced seamstresses. This cooperation leads to precise cuts for every type of chair and fabric. Moreover, there is almost no waste because the computer schedules the individual cuts on the fabric roll perfectly.

FollowMe

Support

The FollowMe chair does all the work for you. You don't have to force yourself into a healthy sitting position, the chair holds your spine in a healthy position naturally while the backrest adjusts to your back. The whole chair provides everyday support.

Trivi

Design by Martin Foret

At first glance, Trivi is a simple minimalist chair with a clean design. But it's the sophisticated details and clever combination of wood and metal that give it a fresh character and durability for everyday use.

Classy

Sewing

The sewing workshop, together with the upholstery workshop, is the heart of the production. Thirty-five skilled seamstresses perform thousands of microscopic details to make everything fit perfectly on the prepared chair body. Machines can't help here, only a precise hand, experience, and dedication can.

Bye bye tiredness...

There are swivel chairs on wheels for productive meetings, simple but comfortable armless armchairs for a quick energy boost in a café, and, for moments of well-deserved rest, hanging chairs that relax the body and mind.

We produce our own steel bases, steel inserts for designing full-foam shells, and other steel accessories. This is made possible thanks to our subsidiary KOV seating, where we work with modern technologies that allow us to use and shape metal in unusual ways - for example, an automatic welding machine.

Metalwork

Harmony of design and comfort

The designers Baldanzi and Novelli have composed a symphony, only instead of notes, they have used timeless design, comfort, and high quality workmanship. The result are the classic Harmony armchair and a modernized version of the Harmony Modern, the designs of which represent you every day.

Paintshop

A place where customers' wishes are fulfilled. In the powder coating shop, we customize and tune chairs according to the clients demand. They can choose any colour from the RAL colour chart, which we use to paint the bases, crosses, and arms in any combination.

Alva

Minimalist design, sophisticated details and ultimate comfort are concentrated in the Alva series. Even when sitting for long hours, they allow deep focus.

[Kubik Box]

Let's meet inside the box

The Kubik box creates a private space in a place where most of the time it is just wishful thinking. Settle into a closed box and open yourself up only to whomever you invite into the box. With a stool, a support cushion, an electrical plug, and a table, you have everything you need to work (live) here.

PUR foam production

Since 2021, we have been filling most of our chairs with PUR foam ourselves in our subsidiary PUR seating. In addition to our own production, we are also able to foam seats for buses, trains and parts of children's seats and medical beds. This is made possible by the experience of our top employees and modern technology.

An ergonomic work chair for everyday tasks that will also become a striking design element in the interior. Details such as the headrest add to the extraordinary seating comfort. The Element chairs also offer comfortable seating in the form of meeting and conference models.

Here, the bodies and components become full-fledged chairs. The upholstered shell is mounted on a cross or a base, and armrests and other accessories are added if necessary. We have chosen the path of smart sustainability

For us at LD Seating sustainability means first and foremost quality. Because when we produce top-quality seating that lasts for decades, there is no unnecessary additional waste. But of course, we also work on the sustainability of the production itself, that's why we:

produce chairs from design to shipment almost in one place.

have received FSC® C184700 certificate.

use ecological (recycled) and natural materials as much as possible. We use fabrics with EU Ecolabel or Cradle to Cradle certification and, for example, we source the leather from the food industry.

have received the EMAS certificate and now we keep accurate records of waste, energy and resources, which we hold to standards are putting photovoltaic panels on the roofs of our production to be energy self-sufficient.

are making gift items (bags, cases, pouches) or building kits named Block for nurseries and children's play areas. In this way, we are gradually moving towards a zero-waste approach.

Top seating for employees of a global leader

Big US multinational company Norgren needed to set up offices in the heart of Europe - in Brno, Czech Republic - close to LD Seating's headquarters. Norgren is a recognized world leader with a long history in fluid management and control.

Their products serve in the most demanding environments and each one is manufactured to the highest possible quality. That's why we knew that the chairs Norgren employees would be sitting on would also have to meet the most demanding requirements. After analyzing the environment and the type of work, the choice fell on the Harmony Modern swivel chairs and Lyra Net conference chairs.

Architect Luka Křížek from IO Studio designed an interior for the insurance company Kooperativa that reflects its values. The result is a unique space full of fresh colours, where Kooperativa employees and clients feel inspired.

The modern environment encourages creativity, but at the same time provides comfort for employees and clients. That's why the Melody Office task chairs were the obvious choice for the branch staff, the Flexi P chairs for the clients, and the Flexi Lounge and Flexi P chairs blended in beautifully in the waiting area. All the chairs are upholstered in bright colours to match the concept, which is gradually being extended to more than 120 other branches.
